1 momma cat and 4 kittens are now seeking a forever home. This sweet, little family came into our care after being abandoned on our neighbor's doorstep. Now that they're nearing adulthood, these 5 need more attention, and space, than we can provide.

When cuddled Buffy'll chew on our hair, put our fingers into her mouth and purr...unless food distracts her. She is rather active when let loose but, since her spay, doesn't play that much with her siblings. Likewise, she prefers eating inside her cardboard box, away from those siblings. That box once saw numerous wrestling matches wherein she'd drive them off.

For some reason she's more calm about sharing the cat hammock with her 2 brothers.

Still it might take some work introducing her to some unknown cat. At least we've seen that she's calm around our original 3 when there are cage bars between her and them.
